Fontos tudnivalók

- Az utasításokat pontosan kell követni. Csak az utasításban megadott helyre beírt megoldás fogadható el.
- Mindig csak egy megoldást szabad beírni.
- A betűjelek legyenek jól olvashatóak, az esetleges javítások pedig egyértelműek.
- A megadott szószámot nem szabad túllépni. Az összevont alakok egy szónak számítanak (pl. "it's" egy szó, "it is" két szó).

Task 1

Read this article about ways to avoid stress. In the sentences that follow the text there are some gaps. Your task is to fill the gaps with one word so that the sentences correspond to what the text says. Contractions (e.g. don't) count as one word. Write the words on the lines. An example has been given for you.

Stress-busters in your home

Dust off those old records; a new study has revealed that your classical collection could be beneficial to your health. Apparently sedate music can induce a state of calm by slowing your breathing and heart rate. But what other stress-busters are there in your home?

It's good to talk
Good friends are just a phone call away. Talking with friends is a great stress relief, for as the old saying goes, 'a problem shared is a problem halved.' Talking to people who are positive rather than critical and judgmental will help to lift your mood. Several studies show that laughter produces endorphins, natural chemicals that ease pain and produce a feeling of euphoria, helping us cope with physical stress and chronic pain.

Puppy love
Researchers in the United States have found that spending time with pets is very effective at reducing stress. The scientists from the University of New York at Buffalo studied 240 married couples, half of whom had a dog or cat. They found that people with pets had lower resting heart rates and blood pressure than those without a cat or dog. They also found that pet owners reacted less to the difficult tasks they were set and their heart rates and blood pressure returned to normal levels more quickly.

Bathtime
Warm water relaxes the muscles and helps ease the aches and pains of the day. Raising the temperature of our bodies stimulates the production of white blood cells, which strengthens the immune system - one of the first systems to suffer when we are stressed. Hot water also encourages sweating which helps to remove toxins from the body.

Mood lighting
A home should be lit to create a sense of comfort and intimacy. Side lights and dimmers can make a much warmer and calmer environment than harsh overhead lighting. And why not indulge yourself in the most beautiful light of all? Candlelight. There's nothing more tranquil.

Sweet dreams
Sleep is essential for nourishing the mind and body so you are ready to spring into the next day anew. Make sure you get a good night's sleep and enjoy tomorrow.

0) According to a new study listening to classical music may actually do your health a lot of ___good___ .

1) You will see that _____ of your problem has disappeared after speaking to a friend about it. 1)

2) If you have a problem it is not good to talk to somebody who will _____ you. 2)

3) Half of the people who took part in a research project at the University of New York had a(n) _____ . 3)

4) Pet owners remained _____ when they were asked to perform some difficult tasks. 4)

5) Among other things, warm water is beneficial, because in reaction to heat our bodies will produce _____ white blood cells. 5)

6) If lights in your home come from the _____ , it will be easier to relax. 6)

7) If you want to be ready for tomorrow both _____ and physically, you must get enough sleep. 7)

Task 2

Read this article on fare dodging, and then read the statements following it. Your task is to decide if the statements correspond to the information in the article.

- If a statement means exactly what the article says, mark it A.
- If it means something different, mark it B.
- If it cannot be decided on the basis of the article, mark it C.

Look at the examples first.

Metro Tries Card Scheme To Battle Fare Dodging

The Moscow metro is updating its fare system once again. On Sunday, state-of-the-art smart cards will go on sale. The magnetic cards, which eventually will be issued to pensioners and all others entitled to ride free, will make it possible to count these passengers and help crack down on the large number of people who abuse the system. Passengers will only have to flash the cards within a few centimetres of the reading device, the yellow spot with a Moscow metro symbol already located on the turnstiles that accept tickets.

Moscow metro employees have been testing 35,000 cards since September of last year. “They are very good. Often there is no need to get them out of your pocket if you are wearing a coat -- just move the pocket up closer to the yellow circle,” said Galina Ibatulina, the chief of the Dynamo metro station. “Women can place the cards in an outside pocket of their handbags,” she said. However, the reading device is quite powerful, so it is probably not recommended to flash a purse with the card in front of the reading device if there are other magnetic cards in it.

Customers will be required to pay a small, so far unspecified deposit for the card itself. Once the card has expired, the deposit will be returned in exchange for the used card.

By next year, the new cards will replace all existing documents which allow certain categories of people to ride for free. Under the current system, these people show their passes to metro employees and bypass the turnstiles to enter the stations.

Out of the 9 million people who use the metro daily a whopping 30 percent are estimated to ride for free or at cut rates. Many buy fake identification cards. It is yet to be seen whether the smart cards will really work as a deterrent against fare dodging.

0) The Moscow metro is going to have a more modern fare system.	0)	A
0) People will be able to buy the smart cards from Monday.	0)	B
8) Under the new system all passengers are going to use the cards.	8)
9) People will have to insert their cards into the reading device before entering the station.	9)
10) Employees have been testing the cards at all the stations of the metro network.	10)
11) If your card is in your bag, it will definitely not work.	11)
12) Passengers must be careful or the reading device may damage their credit cards.	12)
13) It is not yet known how much the cards will cost.	13)
14) By next year metro employees will not have to check the documents of people who travel free of charge.	14)
15) Every day about one third of metro users travel free, but some of them do so illegally.	15)

Task 3

Read this passage on intelligent shoes and the sentences that follow it. Your task is to choose the option that is nearest in meaning to what the article says. Write the letters in the white boxes next to the numbers. An example has been given for you.

Smart shoes decide on television time

Sports shoes that calculate whether their owner has done enough exercise to allow time in front of the television have been devised in the UK.

The shoes - dubbed Square Eyes - contain an electronic pressure sensor and a tiny computer chip to record how many steps the wearer has taken in a day. A wireless transmitter passes the information to a receiver connected to a television, and this decides how much evening viewing time the wearer deserves, based on the day's efforts.

The design was inspired by a desire to combat the rapidly ballooning waistlines among British teenagers, says Gillian Swan, who developed Square Eyes as a final year design project at Brunel University in London, UK. "We took a thorough look at current issues and childhood obesity really stood out. I wanted to tackle that with my design."

Once a child has used up their daily allowance gained through exercise, the television automatically switches off. And further time in front of the TV can only be earned through more steps.

Daily amounts

Swan calculated how exercise should translate to television time using the recommended daily amounts of both. Health experts suggest that a child should take 12,000 steps each day and watch no more than two hours of television. So, every 100 steps recorded by the Square Eyes shoes equates to precisely one minute of TV time.

The first prototype has two sensors in the sole - one that records steps and another, in the heel, that can be used to send data to the receiver with a firm stamp.

"It's a good idea for integrating sensors into clothing," says Cliff Randall, at Bristol University, UK, who believes computers will routinely be built into garments in the future. But Randall says it will be more challenging to build a TV control unit that cannot easily be tricked. "It's got to be easy to install and difficult to bypass," he adds.

Existing step counters normally clip onto a belt or slip into a pocket and keep count of steps by measuring sudden movement. Swan says these can be easily tricked into recording steps through shaking. But her shoe has been built to be harder for lazy teenagers to dupe. "It is possible, but it would take a lot of effort," she says. "That was one of my main design considerations."

0) These new design sports shoes can tell if

A) you have studied enough.
~~B~~) you have done enough sport.
C) you want to watch TV.
D) there are any British programmes on.

0)	B

16) The electronic sensor in Square Eyes

A) determines how much TV you are allowed to watch.
B) registers each step you take.
C) must be plugged into the TV set every evening.
D) sends data to the TV set.

16)

17) Gillian Swan created Square Eyes

A) without doing previous research.
B) because she wanted to study design at university.
C) because she thought obesity was a neglected problem.
D) to help overweight teenagers.

17)

18) The TV automatically switches off

A) and then you can only watch it again after doing some exercise.
B) and then you can only watch it if you pay for it.
C) after the period the parents allowed.
D) after you have used it once that day.

18)

19) During the design process Swan

A) needed to make some calculations as well as translations.
B) decided that a child should not watch more than two hours of TV every day.
C) set the shoes to record 100 steps every minute.
D) took scientists' recommendations into account.

19)

20) According to Cliff Randall

A) Square Eyes are a good example of similar future inventions.
B) Square Eyes have a built-in computer.
C) TV control units are relatively easy to install.
D) TV control units are easier to trick than Square Eyes shoes.

20)

21) Square Eyes shoes

A) count steps by recording rapid movements.
B) will count steps if you shake them.
C) can only be tricked through considerable effort.
D) do not work with lazy teenagers.

Task 4

Read the following article about some treasure found on a remote Pacific island. Parts of some sentences are missing. Your task is to fill them in from the list below. Write the letters in the appropriate white boxes as in the example. Remember that there are two extra letters that you do not need.

600 barrels of loot found on Crusoe island

The archipelago (0) _____ , but perhaps it should have been called Treasure Island.

A long quest for treasure from the Spanish colonial era appears to be culminating in Chile (22) _____ that they have found an estimated 600 barrels of gold coins and Incan jewels on the remote Pacific island.

"The biggest treasure in history has been located," said Fernando Uribe, (23) _____ , the Chilean company leading the search. He estimated the value of the buried treasure at US$10bn (£5.6bn).

The announcement also prompted speculation (24) _____ what is considered to be one of the great lost treasures from the Spanish looting of South America. Chilean newspapers were filled with reports (25) _____ 10 papal rings and original gold statues from the Incan empire.

The hoard is supposedly buried 15 metres (50ft) deep on Robinson Crusoe island, also known as the Juan Fernández island, (26) _____ , the adventurer immortalised by Daniel Defoe as Robinson Crusoe. Selkirk was dumped on the island and lived alone for four years (27) _____ . His exploits brought worldwide attention to the islands.

For centuries treasure hunters have scoured the island in search of valuables which were reportedly buried there in 1715 by a Spanish sailor. Using everything from old Spanish ship logs (28) _____ , foreigners have made so many claims of discovering the lost treasure that islanders are usually sceptical of the announcements.

This most recent announcement, however, (29) _____ because of the equipment used by the treasure hunters: a mini robot that can scan 50 metres deep into the earth. The robot, (30) _____ , was invented by Chileans and over the past year has grabbed headlines by solving some of the country's biggest criminal mysteries. It is yet to be seen whether it works just as well as a treasure hunter.

A about the contents of

B that it includes

Welcome to the Listening component of the Matura Examination.

The listening material and the instructions are recorded on this cassette, and the tasks and instructions are printed in this test booklet.

- There will be three tasks, and every recording will be played twice.
- The tasks will begin with some music, and then you will hear (and you can also read) the instructions to the task.
- This will be followed by a silent period on the cassette in order to give you some time to study the task in your test booklet before hearing the text.
- Then we will play the recording in one piece.
- After another short silent period we will play the recording for the second time, but now in shorter sections and with breaks between the sections in order to give you enough time to write down your answers.
- You will also have some time to check your work at the end of each task.

Please note that the first item in each task (marked with a check [✓]) is always an example.

The whole test is about 30 minutes long.

Good luck!

TASK 1

- In this section, you are going to hear a radio news item about the new punishment policies for certain criminals in Britain.
- Your task is to fill in the missing words – one or two, depending on the gaps provided in each item.
- First, you will have some time to study the task, and then we will play the whole recording in one piece.
- Then, after a short pause, you will hear the recording again, but this time we will play the text in shorter sections to give you enough time to write down your answers.
- At the end, you will have some more time to check your work.

Task A

You would like to spend a couple of months in England doing something useful and you have found the following advertisement. You are interested and would like to find out more about the project.

THE NATIONAL TRUST

Buildings conservation

Volunteer with us and help to conserve and maintain our unique buildings.

How can I help?

You can join our groundbreaking building volunteer project.

We are looking for enthusiasts to assist in important areas of building conservation support; including photography, computerised drawings, archiving and information collection and dissemination.

If you are interested in finding out more: email

volunteers@nationaltrust.org.uk

Write a letter of about 120 words to the organisers. Include the following:

- Say which areas you would be interested in.
- Say what skills you have got.
- Ask what their current projects are.

Begin your letter like this:

Task B

You have found a page called "School Leavers' Forum" on the Internet. You have decided to answer the following letter:

> This is going to be my last year of high school. And unlike my friends, I don't want to leave high school - I'm scared that this year will go by too fast and I'm scared of the future. The people I've asked about this already have told me to just enjoy my last year and that I'll be fine in the future because I'm smart.
> But why am I so so so scared and unsure? Can you help me figure this out?
> Frederic 17

Write a letter of 220 words to Frederic in which you give your opinion. Include the following points:

- How you felt before your last year at school.
- How you feel about changes in life.
- How you think you can make good choices.

Begin your letter like this:
