Fontos tudnivalók

- Az utasításokat pontosan kell követni. Csak az utasításban megadott helyre beírt megoldás fogadható el.
- Mindig csak egy megoldást szabad beírni.
- A betűjelek legyenek jól olvashatóak, az esetleges javítások pedig egyértelműek.
- A megadott szószámot nem szabad túllépni. Az összevont alakok egy szónak számítanak (pl. "it's" egy szó, "it is" két szó).

Task 1

- In the following text about job interviews, the questions have been removed.
- Your task is to match the questions to the answers.
- Write the letters of the questions (A-H) next to the appropriate numbers (1-5).
- There are two extra questions that you do not need.
- Write the letters in the white boxes as in the example (0).

0) _____
This question seems simple, but it's crucial. Make a little speech – one that's concise and convincing and that shows exactly why you're the right fit for the job. Start off with the 2-3 specific accomplishments or experiences of yours that you most want the interviewer to know about.

1) _____
Another seemingly harmless interview question, this is actually a perfect opportunity to stand out and show your passion for and connection to the company. If it was through a professional contact, drop that person's name, then share why you were so excited about it.

2) _____
You must definitely go beyond the firm's "About" page. Start with one line that shows you understand its goals, but then go on to make it personal. Say, "I'm personally drawn to this mission because…" or "I really believe in this approach because…" and share a personal example or two.

3) _____
You must have a great answer to this one – and if you don't, you probably should apply elsewhere. First, identify a couple of key factors that make the role a great fit for you and then say what about this specific field motivates you the most.

4) _____
This is a tough one, but one you can be sure you'll be asked. Definitely keep things positive, frame things in a way that shows that you're eager to move on and take on new opportunities and that the role you're interviewing for is a better fit for you.

5) _____
Seemingly random questions like this come up in interviews generally because hiring managers want to see how you can think on your feet. There's no wrong answer here, but you'll immediately gain bonus points if your answer helps you share your strengths or personality – even if in a metaphorical way.

THE OWL THIEVES OF SWEDEN

Here is a dead-end job: Swedish bank robber. Two years ago there were only two bank robberies in all of Sweden, compared with 110 eight years earlier. Why the steep plunge? It is because the country is going cashless.

In 1661 Sweden became the first European country to print banknotes; several centuries later, it might become the first country to get rid of them. Card readers and mobile-payment apps are now used even in situations that were once reserved for dog-eared paper money and pocket change, like donating in church. Buses in Sweden don't accept cash. Neither do street traders.

Though the government is still printing Sweden's national currency, the kroner, two-thirds of Swedes say they feel that they could live without banknotes and coins. The kroner accounted for barely 2 percent of the value of all payments made last year and fewer than half of Swedish banks keep any cash on hand.

Which might be why Swedish thieves are undertaking more and more bizarre crimes, including a recent series of breaking into moving delivery trucks from a car travelling 50 miles an hour, its lights off to avoid detection. After several such attacks, the Swedish postal service, PostNord, managed to catch the highway robbers by wiring a truck with cameras, filling it with Apple products and waiting. On a road somewhere in southwest Sweden the robbers took the bait and cops moved in. "Thieves are more interested in high-value items now than cash," says PostNord's head of security.

Criminals have also shown new enthusiasm for the trade in endangered species. Crimes involving protected species recently reached their highest level in a decade. A single great gray owl − known as the "phantom of the North" − now goes for 1 million kroner (about $120,000) on the dark web.

Though it is no small irony that going cashless might inspire more crime rather than less, it is, from one perspective, predictable. Research indicates that as we gain "psychological distance" from money, our willingness to steal increases. Which helps explain why so many people cheat on taxes, inflate insurance claims and steal Post-it Notes from the office.

Or steal electronic goods from moving delivery trucks.

MY DATE WITH MICHELANGELO

On the fourth floor of the British Museum, in a quiet corner far from the mummies and the Rosetta Stone, is an unremarkable door. (0) _____ I first opened the door a few years ago, holding a piece of paper with some scribbled directions. (13) _____

Instead, after a brief ID check, I was shown into a room with a glass ceiling, elegantly carved gallery and cabinets stocked with cardboard boxes. (14) _____ Two million prints and 50,000 drawings are stored here, from a Virgin and Child by Rembrandt to a drawing of a philosopher by Michelangelo. (15) _____

But unlike most others of its kind, this one is not locked away. The British Museum's Study Room happens to be London's most democratic and accessible collection of masterpieces. (16) _____ Visitors don't need a membership card, a reader's pass or a letter supporting their research project. They don't have to keep a safe distance from the art to prevent the alarm going off.

Yet no one I mentioned it to has heard of it. (17) _____

According to the museum's website, visitors may ask to see any print or drawing. But relatively few people seem to find their way here. Conservators are probably grateful for that. (18) _____ But there is no substitute for looking at an original. CLIMATE REPORT: SCIENTISTS URGE DEEP RAPID CHANGE TO LIMIT WARMING

It's the final call, say scientists, the most extensive warning yet on the risks of rising global temperatures. Their dramatic report on keeping that rise under 1.5°C states that the world is now completely off track, heading instead towards 3°C.

Staying below 1.5°C will require "rapid, far-reaching and unprecedented changes in all aspects of society". It will be hugely expensive, the report says, but the window of opportunity is not yet closed.

After three years of research and a week of discussions with government officials from across the globe at a meeting in South Korea, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change has issued a special report on the impact of global warming of 1.5°C.

The critical 33-page Summary for Policymakers is the result of difficult negotiations between climate researchers determined to stick to what their studies have shown and political representatives more concerned with economies and living standards. Despite the inevitable compromises, there are some key messages that come through loud and clear.

The first is that limiting warming to 1.5°C brings a lot of benefits compared with limiting it to 2°C. It really reduces the impacts of climate change in very important ways.

The second is the unprecedented nature of the changes that are required if we are to limit warming to 1.5°C – changes to energy systems, changes to the way we manage land, changes to transportation.

"Scientists might want to write in capital letter, 'ACT NOW IDIOTS', but they need to say that with facts and numbers," said an observer at the negotiations. "And they have."

The researchers have used these facts and numbers to paint a picture of the world with a dangerous fever, caused by humans. We used to think if we could keep warming below 2°C this century, then the changes we would experience would be manageable. Not any more. This study says that going past 1.5°C is risking the planet's liveability. And the 1.5°C temperature limit could be passed in little more than a decade.

We can stay below it but it will require urgent, large-scale changes from governments and individuals, plus we will have to invest a massive pile of cash every year, around 2.5% of global GDP, for two decades. Even then, we will still need machines, trees and plants to capture carbon from the air that we can then store deep underground. Forever!

(https://bbc.com)

0)	The new climate report is more dramatic than anything before it.	0) A
21)	The report warns that global warming might reach 3°C.	21)
22)	It is still just possible to limit global warming to 1.5°C.	22)
23)	Politicians believe that a more realistic 2°C target should be set.	23)
24)	Minor changes in energy use, transport and agriculture will not solve the problem.	24)
25)	The report was published after three years of negotiations between scientists and politicians.	25)
26)	Scientists use very strong language in the report, calling politicians idiots.	26)
27)	If the 1.5°C limit is exceeded, the earth could become uninhabitable.	27)
28)	The scale of the problem is such that individuals can do nothing about it.	28)
29)	Unless immediate steps are taken, it will cost about 2.5% of the world's GDP to stay within the 1.5°C limit.	29)

This is the end of this part of the exam.

Task 1

- You are going to read an article about the famous painting The Scream by Norwegian painter Edvard Munch (1863-1944). Some words are missing from the text.
- Use the words in brackets to form the words that fit in the gaps (1-9).
- Then write the appropriate form of these words on the dotted lines after the text.
- There might be cases when you do not have to change the word in brackets.
- Use only one word for each gap.
- There is an example (0) at the beginning.

THE SCREAM

Edvard Munch, one of the first (0) _____ (expression), painted several versions of The Scream in 1893. The painting was part of his "Frieze of Life" series, in which (1) _____ (sick), death, fear, love and melancholy are central themes.

According to Munch, the (2) _____ (inspire) for his painting was drawn from a past event. The Scream was a result of the (3) _____ (anxious) and fear he felt on a day while walking with two friends. The (4) _____ (peace) atmosphere, which he had hoped to enjoy, was suddenly interrupted by (5) _____ (change) in the sky, caused by the setting sun.

"Suddenly the sky turned blood red. I paused, feeling (6) _____ (exhaust), and leaned on the fence. There was blood and tongues of fire above the city. My friends walked on and I stood there (7) _____ (tremble) with fear. And I heard an infinite scream passing through nature," said Munch.

Astronomers believe the red sky was caused by a (8) _____ (volcano) eruption half a world away. Donald Olson, a physics and astronomy professor at Texas State University, and his colleagues determined that debris (9) _____ (throw) into the atmosphere by the great eruption at the island of Krakatoa, in modern Indonesia, created bright red twilights in Europe from November 1883 to February 1884.

The painting has even inspired Hollywood: the mask of Ghostface – a character in the horror series Scream – is based on it.

Welcome to the Listening component of the Matura Examination.

The listening material and the instructions are recorded on this CD, and the tasks and instructions are printed in your test booklet.

- There will be three tasks, and every recording will be played twice.
- The tasks will begin with some music, and then you will hear (and you can also read) the instructions to the task.
- This will be followed by a silent period on the CD in order to give you some time to look at the task in your test booklet before hearing the text.
- Then we will play the recording in one piece.
- After that, we will play the recording for the second time, but now in shorter sections and with breaks between the sections in order to give you enough time to write down your answers.

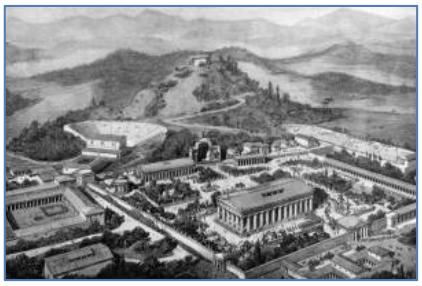

Please note that the first item in each task (marked with a tick [✓]) is always an example.

The whole test is exactly 30 minutes long.

Good luck!

TASK 1

- In this section you will hear the story of the ancient Olympic Games.

TASK 2

- In this section you will hear an advertisement for an interesting job.
- Your task will be to decide whether the following statements are true, false or we do not know because the text does not say and write the appropriate letter in the boxes on the right. Write A if the statement is true, write B if the statement is false, and write C if the text does not say.
- First, you will have some time to look at the task, and then we will play the whole recording in one piece.
- Then, you will hear the recording again, but this time we will play the text in shorter sections to give you enough time to write down your answers.
- A= TRUE B= FALSE C= THE TEXT DOES NOT SAY

✓ The ad says that the position is on offer only for people who speak fluent Greek. B

10. The applicant's job will be to work together with the owner in the running of the sanctuary. ☐

11. It's a basic requirement that the applicant should be a trained veterinary nurse. ☐

12. The advertisement offers extra pay for taking care of the garden. ☐

13. The applicant must feed the cats at least four times a day. ☐

14. Although the sanctuary is in a nature preserved area, it is rather busy in summer. ☐

15. The ideal applicant should not be older than 45. ☐

16. It is important that the applicant should be somewhat familiar with cat psychology. ☐

17. The applicant will not get paid for the first few weeks of the job. ☐

18. Applicants can negotiate the exact amount of the salary during the Skype interview. ☐

That is the end of Task 2.

Mindkét feladatot meg kell írni!
A pontozott sorokra kell írni!
Ügyeljen a megadott szószámra! Amennyiben a létrehozott szöveg jelentősen eltér (rövidebb, hosszabb) a megadott szóintervallumtól, az pontlevonással jár.

Task 1

During your stay in Glasgow, Scotland your friends invited you to a skiing trip in the mountains. You would like to practise before you go and you have found the following advertisement:

Glasgow ski and snowboard centre

Maybe you haven't been working on your fitness this summer, and are feeling as mothballed as your ski clothing. Perhaps you're a complete beginner, and fancy a taste of skiing or snowboarding before you set off for your first ever holiday. Or it could just be that you are desperate for the next gravity-driven thrill.

Whatever the motive, you don't have to wait till you get to the mountains to ski. Glasgow is home to an indoor, real-snow centre as well as two outdoor, dry slopes, and they're all there for you to try. We offer many taster sessions for first-timers, as well as more structured courses on proper snow in a snow dome. Compared to the real thing, prices are low; daily lift passes start at about £18pp.

Tell us about your needs: whether you would prefer individual lessons with an instructor or would rather be part of a group, if you are a beginner or an experienced skier, how frequently you would like to come, and which part of the day would suit you best. We'll offer a course specially for you!

Contact Ian here.

Write a message of 120-150 words to Ian in which you

- tell him about your level of skiing and what you would like to achieve,
- describe what kind of course you have in mind and why,
- ask about the prices and the necessary equipment.

Begin your message like this:

Dear Ian,

Task 2

You have found the following post on an internet forum called Family and Friends:

I'm in a really hard position right now. At the weekend I saw my best friend Kevin's long-time girlfriend cheating on him. No, I couldn't have misinterpreted the situation: she and this guy were on the bus hugging and kissing. She didn't see me, and I got off at the next stop. Now I'm not sure if I should tell Kevin or not. I was waiting a few days and asked a couple of neutral questions about the girl to see whether there was a problem between them, but apparently, he doesn't suspect anything and even told me about their plans for the summer. If I told him, I'm sure that would be the end of their relationship, since he is very honest and also relentless with himself and with others, so whatever she would choose to say to explain it, there is no excuse that he would accept. Still, I haven't made up my mind yet, as it would certainly make Kevin upset and unhappy and it might also happen that Kevin, even if he realises that I only have his interest in mind that he shouldn't be deceived, would have mixed feelings about me from that point on. The last thing I want is to jeopardize our friendship.
What do you think? Shall I tell Kevin everything even if it means causing trouble between him and his girlfriend (and maybe between the two of us too)? Or keep quiet and feel I'm an accomplice?
George

Write a comment of 200-250 words in which you include the following:

- what you think of cheating in general,
- to what extent you think friends should be honest to each other,
- if you have ever had or heard of a similar dilemma,
- whether you think George should tell his friend about what he saw.

Begin like this:
